

Criminal Justice

We have two degree programs here at HACC for criminal justice and for police science. The criminal justice transfer associate's degree there are two concentrations, one is a general concentration, the other is a law enforcement concentration.

I'll be transferring to Penn State in the spring.

I graduated from HACC with an associate's degree in criminal justice.

I work as a State Constable.

The second program we have is a police science associates degree. It is a career degree.

You get hands-on experience.

It is designed for students who want to try to enter into the field immediately upon graduation from HACC or they apply to put themselves through our police academy which is also at HACC.

I plan to graduate from HACC with my associate's degree and then enroll into HACC's police academy.

I hope enroll into a police academy. I'm going to Baltimore City Police.

The professors are really personable. They're very one-on-one and they're very down to Earth.

They're experienced in the field of police they're not just reading out a book.

It's just a really good school to go to.
